Virtually any authentic literature is fine if you verify the reading level FIRST!! (To verify reading level, remember that 75% vocabulary mastery is minimum for in-class reading, 90% is minimum for assigned reading.

The classroom library

Free Voluntary Reading is the most powerful reading activity there is. You need a library of materials at all different levels and of all different interests. Include comic books, TV Guides, newspapers, magazines, translations of familiar (children's) stories, bay books, children's books, readers that you have examined from other publishers, and short-story books. You will soon have several short-story books if you simply type up (correct errors, and elaborate with extra descriptions and even extra sentences) any really good story that you get from students on essays, tests, or free-writes. Sign the short story with the student's name. When you have 15 -20 stories, print them out and staple, titling it "Cuentos de la clase de español III, 2008-2009" or some such title.

Get your students to join the Spanish Scholastic book club,! They buy their own books and contribute to your Spanish library. Just contact Scholastic at <http://scholastic.com/>

Sources for books for your library:

Mary Sosnowski owns a book company of nothing but children's books in French and Spanish. She is knowledgeable about language acquisition and a reading expert. She is (of course) a HUGE fan of TPR Storytelling®. She will tell you about every single book, if you like!

<http://www.sosnowskibooks.com/>

Amazon.com has a Spanish catalogue online.

Continental Book Company has a wide selection of literature, magazines, dictionaries, AND they have knowledgeable employees!

Continental Book Company <http://www.continentalbook.com/>

AMSCO School Publications, Inc. <http://www.amscopub.com/>

World of Reading, Ltd. www.wor.com

MEP School Division www.mep-eli.com

Lots of readers in French, Spanish, German, Italian, Latin, BIG BOOKS

Aquila has great catalog of books, some of them have an audio CD

<http://www.aquilacommunications.com/>

To get lots of children's books (CHEAP!!) go to eBay and search for "Spanish childrens books." I heard that you may get a whole boxful of a family's cast-offs this way!

To get FREE readers, visit the Mexican Secretary of Education web site and download the little readers!

http://www.sep.gob.mx/wb2/sep/sep_3866_libros_de_texto_grat

The books in "Español. Lecturas." are cute. You can print them out in color and put them together yourself.

A great source is: www.readinga-z.com You just subscribe for something like $30 and then you can print out tons of books for all levels!

Another good resource is www.WrightGroup.com

Order a Spanish catalog and you can get leveled readers, high interest.

“Zoo Books” published by Wildlife Education Fund in San Diego.

They come in a pack (about 50) for $120. They are short magazine-type publications about all kinds of animals.
